

Patchwork quilt Sherri Lynn Wood. Source: flickr

SACRAMENTO FACES RACE

"Bridging Understanding from the Black-American Experience and Perspective"

sac
lib SACRAMENTO PUBLIC LIBRARY

Presents...

America's Racist Laws and Policies— Historic and Now

Saturday, October 29, 2016

1:00 PM to 4:00 PM

EXPERT PANELISTS:

Prof. Angela P. Harris JD, Prof. Bruce Haynes PhD, Prof. Jesus Hernandez PhD, Prof. Brian Landsberg JD, and Moderator, Prof. Diane Carlson JD, EdD

Join neighbors throughout the Sacramento Region while experts offer food for thought in a frank discussion about how race has been used as the defining line for power distribution in our country, and how that power distribution has created an unjust society. We will explore the foundations of divisive and oppressive rules including our Constitution, the Equal Protection Clause, Fair Housing, and the perpetuation of redlining through legislation and economic development. We'll understand "a" time line from the landing on this continent's shores, to colonialists who first immigrated to the Americas, to the Civil Rights Movement through today. And we can't wait to discuss some solutions for change to an equitable society. We even have a call to action~!

sac
lib SACRAMENTO PUBLIC LIBRARY

We appreciate your advanced registration: <http://www.saclibrary.org/events?eventId=195479>

PLEASE ALLOW TIME FOR PARKING!

828 I St., Sacramento, CA 95814

Parking: Nearest Cross Street: 9th St (Parking Garage at 8th & J St)

Nearest Transit Stop: 9th St & I St \(SB\)

<http://www.saclibrary.org/Locations/Central/Central-Parking-Information/>

Check out other Sacramento Faces Race Events Taking Place the Weekend of October 27-30 <http://www.sacramentofacesrace.com/>